DAVID GRIMES' STAR

Put a loop of string on one hand and put one of the lines hanging down around the hand. Pull on the two on the palm and you have the string doubled.

Put that doubled loop on one hand, thumb and little finger. On the other hand use the index. Bring that hand with the thumb and little finger over and come down from the TOP into the palmar loop and twist.

Stand your hands up as if you were to clap. Open the thumb and little finger and you have the star.

INDIA

India was a VIM (Volunteers in Mission) trip with the Methodist church. There were twelve of us, with one who was raised in India, and his grown daughter who helped plan the trip.

One of the highlights of the trip was being invited to an Indian Wedding. The first night we arrived, the women went to the brides home to have the henna tattoos put on their arms and hands. The next night we all went to a rented park where 500 people enjoyed Indian music. The costumes of the bride and groom were very elegant. There was a buffet of Indian foods. The third night we went to the actual wedding. We did not go early to see the groom arrive in a carriage pulled with white horses. Much ritual and another buffet ended this wonderful experience.

The next day I worked with the Webb Memorial Secondary students, 600 of them, and then we went to a boys school for a reception and of course, I did a string program with them. The district superintendent was there and very impressed with the possibilities for strings.

We went to two grand celebrations at the Vo-Tech and the Girls Hostel. Great entertainment with costumes, stage lights and a buffet. This was the first time for VIM to be in India and we were looking around to see what were the possibilities for future mission.

We also took a trip to Delhi and on to Agra where we saw the Taj Mahal at sunrise and also in the middle of the day. What an experience! I usually do not do much sight seeing so this was wonderful.

On the way home we spent time at Gandhi's home and two of his memorials. We also went to the Lotus Temple. These were wonderful experiences but very exhausting. Up early and at the hotel late to eat; then up early again. I could not keep that up too long.

One time of note was when the team was shopping in a center and I was out with the drivers doing string. Wow, does it work with all ages. We had so much fun that one of the store keepers came out and ask us to move because customers could not come in. I had a great time and enjoyed meeting some very dedicated people. I

During the day we did the mission things. We were at Webb Memorial Girls School and had sent funds to provide a bathing area and washing area. We inspected those and had a nice welcoming reception by the 170 girls. The team painted while I did strings with the girls. The next day I went to the Webb Memorial Elementary School and did strings figures with about 800 students. The girls were very proud that they could do some of the things already.

MEXICO

I went to Mexico with a humanitarian VIM team from Walters, Oklahoma. They paid my way because they could see the benefits of having the “String Man” along. We left at midnight and drove all night and half the next day to get to San Carlos, Mexico. It was a Construction and Medical team. I worked with both groups and also went to the local elementary school one day and the secondary school another. My Spanish is getting good enough for me to go off alone and make myself understood.

We had a great time with lots of good food at El Presidente’s home. We had a cookout there that was out of this world. They took good care of us and the rain did not stop us from working.

We did have one of the doctors get sick and she rode home in the back of the van I was driving. She had an IV held up with one of my strings as we did the all night drive back to Walters, OK. Sometimes these trips get a little stressful. I did develop an ulcer soon after this trip. I wonder why?

PERU

I went on a humanitarian trip to Peru with a group of people from Edmond, OK in July of 2010. The team was divided, with some constructing the frame for a community center in a refugee center, and the other conducting two different medical and eyeglass clinics for the people in these refugee centers. This VIM (Volunteer in Mission) trip was sponsored through Edmond First United Methodist Church.

The people in this center live on the desert outskirts of Chincha, Peru about 160 miles from Lima on the coast in small square shacks made of woven bamboo. It doesn’t rain there so the roof was just another sheet of this woven bamboo. They walk to get water from the river. Electricity is in part of the camp.

I worked with people coming to the clinic. Sometimes the onlookers get in the way of the needed medical activities and I was able to draw them away from that activity to work with string figures. I was also able to work with some of the children who came. Four different boys came back again and again to learn more and more. They were really hooked on this activity.

I also visited a school in the Refugee center and worked with those 300 children. The teachers were so appreciative to have a new activity for these children. They are bright children with no artistic or creative outlet. It was great to give them each a bright colored string and teach them some activities.

I have now added Guinea Pig and Alpaca to my list of gastronomical challenges. When offered, it is rude to refuse. The missionary prayer works here... “God, I got it down, you keep it down.”

HAVING FUN WITH STRINGS

It is so much fun going to a small village and stopping in the square or at the market and pulling out my string. All I have to do is one figure and I have an audience. Someone wants to show me what they know and someone else wants me to teach the figure that I just did.

I may go to the local school which is usually two or three classrooms of 50 kids or so. There, the kids are captivated with the figures, and also with trying to listen to English. Often, it is the principal or head teacher that is translating and some of the kids jump in when they have a problem with a term. We all work together with English, Sign and gesture to get the message across. One of the first terms I learn is "like this." I then start a figure and say, "Like this, like this, then like this." Doesn't take much skill in a language to translate love and caring for the individual.

After school or later in the day, someone will come to me and ask "Do you know this one?" It is one that I showed to the other class and they have passed it along. As Juan teaches it to Pedro and Pedro passes it along to Juanita they think it is something just invented or made up. They want me to know about it and how smart they are to know it. Nothing works like success.

When I go to another country, most of the bookings (programs) are not for pay. I am there to share love. Love of God and also love from the US. We are getting a lot of bad publicity abroad. Americans are not held in high regard many places. When I leave a program or village I want the people to say, "Who was that Masked... no, String Man". "Oh, he is a Christian from America." If that is the only message they get, I think it is enough. Thanks for your support and prayers in making this happen.

CHANGE OF PLANS

Sometimes when you think that a trip is going to be very simple, it turns out differently. I had a trip to Alaska last year with school bookings in Anchorage, Palmer and Wasilla.

I was staying with a family that had a separate apartment with their garage. They loaned me the use of the apartment and the use of a pickup with studded tires. Wow, was I in good shape.

Then Mount Redoubt erupted and there were ash clouds to follow. We kept track of the clouds and where the ash was falling. If it falls on your car it can seriously hurt the motor. We put panty hose on the air filter to keep out the ash. You also have to wash it off or it can ruin the paint job.

Only one day did I have to leave the truck in the garage and not go out because of the ash. Sometimes the ash cloud was very high and the ash was falling 100 miles away instead of near us. It also closed the airport since the ash can ruin motors. When the clouds were going the other way, they would open the airport, then close it when another eruption took place. I had to stay a couple of extra days because the planes were backed up trying to get people moving again. It is the unexpected things that keep me on my toes.

NEW! Dave has produced a new video titled "Exciting Christian String Figures".

He worked with 8th graders from St. Charles Borromeo School in Oklahoma City to make it. It is designed for adults to learn figures to work with children, or who are going on mission trips. It will also work with older children to view and learn. Some of the figures include the Creation story with a Star, Sun, Crocodile, Flea and Man. It also includes the Holy Spirit, Heart Beat, Drum and others. The figures are shown with clear directions and viewed from different directions to help the learner. They are also shown more than once.

The DVD was produced through String Ministries, Inc. The retail cost will be $9.95 each with a string included. The video is 42 minutes long. This video and "Sharing with String" provide many things to use for Pastors Children's Moments, Sunday School teachers, Youth Workers and Missionaries. There are no duplications on these videos and will also be fun to watch just to learn some new figures. Available at www.StringFigureStore.com.

STARTER KITS

I sometimes get emails from pastors or Christian organizers that are interested in String Ministries, Inc. They usually want me to come overseas to preach and teach. I cannot go everywhere and some of these churches/orphanages/missions are in places that the State Department suggests I not travel to.

I have started sending them the two evangelization DVD's and a bag of 110 strings as an introduction and starter kit. This will be sent free and will cost String Ministries about $40 for each kit. I do not expect to send a lot but it is much cheaper than me traveling to the place.

If something comes of the introduction to String Ministries, Inc. then maybe I can go later. - Dave

PAKISTAN SCHOOL

The school in Pakistan that Pastor Swan and I started a year and a half ago is up and running. We had to buy a building since the government would not let us use the church building. We now have about 78 students enrolled. The school was out for the summer as the temperatures reached 130 most days. They did install a refrigerated water cooler for the students. School is now back in session.

This humanitarian effort, on the part of donors here in the US and around the world, is helping boys and girls. In one family the grandfather is watching the goats so the boy can go to school. In other families the parents and grandparents are going against family tradition and sending the girls. The Government schools have kids sitting on the floor, so we have chairs for our students. It is amazing how that elevates the school another notch in people's eyes.

Pastor Swan obtained donations through his Face Book account for 11 sewing machines for the women of the village. The women are going to sew uniforms for the students as part of the repayment for the machines.

The kids look so happy in the pictures. They did well on the state exams and we are proud of the work they are doing. Donations are still needed on an ongoing basis to keep the school going.

STRING MINISTRIES

www.StringMinistries.org

BOARD: Charles Boyle, Peggy Brock, Reverend Kevin King, Hazel Stall, Mayme Strange, Randy Warren, and Mike Wood. DIRECTOR: David Titus

THE PURPOSE OF STRING MINISTRIES: String Ministries is a Christian organization founded to share the love of Christ through string figures, especially working with the people in developing nations, refugees, oppressed, imprisoned or disabled. Some examples of these would include, but not be exclusive to: leprosy patients in Mongolia, reindeer herders of Mongolia, Palestinian refugees, aids affected inner city children of New York, Alaska Children's Services group homes, children of prisoners, Pokera Drug treatment center in Pokera Nepal, isolated Alaskan villages, and East European children.

String Ministries would also prepare materials such as videos, books, pamphlets or interactive CD's for teaching. These materials would be provided at reduced or no cost. Staff would also be available to teach and equip people, including such things as teaching at Missionaries Annual Conference in Nepal and Mongolia, speaking at churches and organizations to promote the ministry, and other activities as needed. String Ministries may also provide strings to missionaries, Volunteer-in-mission people, special groups, etc. at reduced or no cost.

Individuals, Churches, and Groups would you help sponsor a future mission trip?

A $100 donation would allow over 500 to have fun with strings. Please be a part of this joy-filled experience for the needy of the world. Donations are tax deductible.

BOOKS

STRING FIGURES by A. Johnston Abraham. 1988 Reference Publications, $12.00. B001

Describes the principal examples of funiculology (the art of making string figures) found throughout the world. Illustrated by 61 line drawings, it also provides instructions for making them, and covers the historic, aesthetic, technical, and psychic dimensions. World distribution of string figures, mythology, religious beliefs, taboos, and legends are also discussed.

NA'ATL'O' NAVAJO STRING GAMES by Don Mose. 2005 (Book with DVD) $25.00. B016

Forty pages in full color. Over 75 illustrations. The book tells about the Navajo beliefs behind the string games and refers the reader to the appropriate track on the DVD. The DVD shows video of how to perform forty-three string figures.

FAVOURITE STRING GAMES by Camilla Gryski. 1995 Kids Can Press (string included) $9.95. B019

Sixteen of Gryski's favorite string games compiled from three of her previous books. Grab a string and try the Siberian House, then break the house and watch two people run away. Or make the Looper Caterpillar crawl up somebody's arm! Plus Fish Spear, Apache Door, and more. Clear drawings and step-by-step instructions demonstrate each move.

STRING STORIES: A CREATIVE, HANDS-ON APPROACH FOR ENGAGING CHILDREN IN LITERATURE by Belinda Holbrook. 2002 Linworth Publishing, $36.95. B023

This is the first book that is dedicated solely to string figure stories. Learn about the history of string figures, and receive basic string figure instructions, as well as tips for performing string figure stories. Each of the 19 stories is accompanied by step-by-step illustrated instructions for the figure. Includes: The Park, The Leprechaun, and The Mother and The Ogre from Crystal Brown; Saving the Princess from Philip Noble; Going Fishing from Brian Cox; and The Two Old Women from David Titus.

STRING GAMES by Richard Darsie. 2003 Sterling Publishing (Spiral bound, 3 string included.) $14.95. B024WS

ALSO AVAILABLE IN SOFT COVER WITHOUT STRINGS - $7.95 B024

Enjoy creating patterns from basic to flashy to 3D; the huge variety goes from beginner right up to very tricky and elaborate. Many of the games come from different ethnic and national groups, so along with the basics of play, there are fun lessons that enhance cultural awareness and fascinating tales of the tribal origin of figures like "Walking Sticks of Old Woman" and "Pillars of the Sun." Full instructions & photo illustrations for twenty-four figures.

A LOOP OF STRING by Ruth Stotter. 2009 Regent Press. $22.95. B026

The history of string figures shows them to be an important accompaniment to stories and chants in many cultures, especially the Pacific Rim countries. This how-to book carries on this tradition, providing stories that accompany directions for making 21 plus string figures and stunts including: Japanese butterfly, Apache door, Siberian house, and frog.

NATIVE AMERICAN STRING FIGURES by David Titus. 2003 WRDSMTH Productions, $5.99. B027

Book one of the "World Culture Series." Easy directions and drawings show how to make this sampling of the many Native American string figures. Examples range from the Apache, Navajo, Kiowa, and Inuit: even a native Hawaiian figure. Eleven figures including: Teepee, Kiowa Star, Navajo Drum, Navajo Hair Bun, Carrying Wood, and Hammock.

AFRICAN STRING FIGURES by David Titus. 2004 WRDSMTH Productions, $5.99. B028

Book two of the "World Culture Series." A sampling of figures found in Africa from the Egyptians and Berbers in the North to the Zulu and Bushmen in the South. Thirteen figures including: Mosquito, Yams, Batoka Gorge, Seven Diamonds, and Thirteen Diamonds. Easy directions and clear illustrations.

NATIVE ALASKAN STRING FIGURES by David Titus with David Nicolai. 2007 WRDSMTH Productions, $5.99. B029

Book three of the "World Culture Series." Approximately sixteen figures from the Native people of Siberia, Alaska, and Canada including: Fishing Spear, Scissors Series, Knots, Skin House, and Heart. Many show motion like Shooting Arrow, Porcupine and Two Birds Flying. Clear directions, step-by-step illustrations, and source notes for each figure.

BACK TO SCHOOL

As children become more involved with video games and TV, let's give them an alternative. Children actually put down their games to make string figures. They share them with one another or make things together. This activity is great for hand/eye coordination and left/right brain activity. Much of this learning is cross hemisphere learning and transfers to handwriting and other activities.

If Dave Titus has not been to your school in the last three years, it is time to have him. As an author of nonfiction books and DVD's he can encourage your students to create their own materials. They can use the string figures for storytelling, invent their own figures or teach others. Fifth graders can become "string buddies" with the Kindergarten children.

Four hundred dollars for a day long series of workshops by grade level usually comes out to less than one dollar a student. Sell extra strings and you can pay for the ones that you give the classes. These are not empty calories but rather teaching tools that you are providing to the children.

EVERY student succeeds to some degree with this activity and the ADD - ADHD students are the best at it usually. They just jump in and try. It also helps some of those tactile and visual learners that are left out of some classroom activities.

Students can then buy one of Dave's three books at only $5.00 each to continue the learning process. Imagine the joy of meeting an author, having one of his autographed books, and learning more from it to show others. This is a great rainy day, inside recess activity. You can look up on the map to find where some of the figures came from.

Start early in the year with this great experience and the students will be able to use it all year long.

HOW I SPENT MY SUMMER VACATION

I sure had fun this summer. Summer library programs are very different from school visits. All age ranges with adults included.

For one system I did nine libraries in four days. I did get to cover a lot of the state and took a young man from church to help me at some of the programs.

Stillwater had 700 kids in one day and Lawton had about 600. That is quite a challenge with all the preschoolers in the group.

It was a good summer.

summer camps

Camp Ray Bird in South Bend, Indiana has been buying strings for years to use with their campers. Each day they teach another string figure and a story to go with it.

The camp staff like to teach more things on their off time so I flew up to South Bend and went to the camp. I taught the camp staff some new string figures and the stories that go with them. They were very excited about teaching them to the campers during the summer.

I was told one young camper worked his way through all the figures in one of my string figure books and earned another one to take home.

DAVE KNOWS HOW TO SEPARATE CHURCH & STATE. HE PRESENTS A VERY NICE AND EXCITING EDUCATIONAL SCHOOL PROGRAM.
